

Mike Barnett

Started with ITeC in 1997 and successfully completed the PCB Design and Repair Course Level 2 and Installing and Supporting IT Level 3.

Following an initial induction period at ITeC I was employed by the international company Lumonics, with 22 sites world wide. My role was varied and I worked my way up to be the general IT Manager.

Lumonics later merged with GSI and then was bought out and re-named Lynx Xymark. In total I worked here for over 2 years and feel that I gained valuable experience.

Following on from this I moved to the NHS as the Senior Support Engineer with responsibility for servers across three hospitals.

I have recently set up a venture with three colleagues, the company is called Expandable IT, my role is Technical Director. We presently have 8 people working for us in total. Our aim is to provide IT support to local businesses, and we have recently supplied Hull City Council Training with a server.

“Workbased learning gave me real life working experience to equip me with the skills to reach my future goals.”
